A WORD FROM THE PASTOR

As I settled more into the everyday routine of this parish, I think about how and what can I introduce to you in new events. And by that I mean what spiritual and religious devotions I can bring to this community of faithful people.

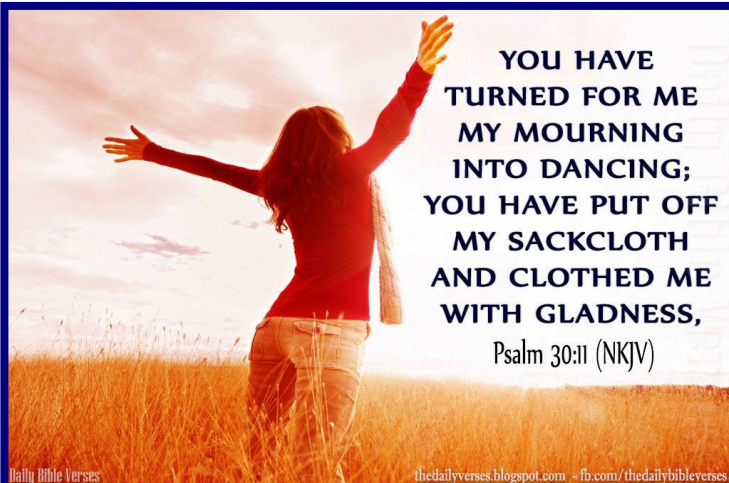

I know from hearing and seeing some of you before the daily mass begins that many of you have a special place in your hearts for the Blessed Mother. I was pleasantly surprised to hear you reciting the rosary prior to the beginning of the daily mass. That has also been my devotion since I was eight years old as well. This devotion to Mary through the Rosary has kept me going in my faith, but more importantly it is her guidance to her Son that rejuvenates me on a daily basis. Mary, like our earthly mothers, has been a constant in my life. When we lose our earthly mothers through death, we can always count on Mary being there for us and comforting us through our sorrow, fear, loneliness, physical and mental anguish that each of us experience in everyday life. But Mary is also there to share in times of joy, prosperity, and good health. I truly believe that Mary stands along side our mothers in heaven, watching over us and making sure they, along with Mary, intercede on our behalf to our heavenly Father.

By highlighting the human dimension of the Incarnation, devotion to Mary helps the faithful "to discern the face of a God who shares the joys and sufferings of humanity", the Holy Father said at the General Audience of Wednesday, 5 November. Many Marian devotions and prayers are an extension of the liturgy itself and have sometimes contributed to its overall enrichment, as is the case with the Office in honor of the Blessed Virgin and other pious compositions which have become part of the Breviary and our everyday life. Calling upon "Holy Mary, Mother of God", Christians ask the one who was the immaculate Mother of the Lord by a unique privilege: "Pray for us sinners", and entrust themselves to her at the present moment and at the ultimate moment of death. Let us pray to our heavenly Mother to intercede on our behalf and that Jesus her Son welcomes us to the Heavenly Kingdom which he promised whilst living among us. Amen.
